AMERICA WINS WALKER CUP GOLF TOURNEY

Deadlocked at Noon, Yanks Catch Fire To Defeat British 8-4.

By The Associated Press

ST. ANDREWS, May 17—Catching fire on today's final round, America's Walker cup golfers scored a stunning 8 to 4 victory over the defending British team by winning six of the eight concluding singles matches after the two sides had been deadlocked at the end of the morning round.

After Smiley Quick, public links champion from California, had eliminated the American triumph by scoring the fifth singles victory over Jimmie Wilson of Scotland, by 8 and 6, Frank Stranahan of Toledo added the sixth and unneeded win over Charlie Stowe of England, 2 and 1.

Score for British

Joe Carr, Irish amateur champion, and Ronnie White of England, scored the defending side's only singles victories. Carr defeated Ted Bishop, American amateur king, 5 and 3, while White turned back Frank Kammer jr., 4 and 3, in the last match.

The British had held the cup since 1938, the matches having been abandoned during the war years.

The American victory came with dramatic suddenness early in the afternoon. At lunchtime the two teams had been tightly deadlocked. Four players of each side having piled up leads in the morning round.

But at the start of the afternoon round the Americans, one after the other, began catching fire while their opponents wilted.

Ward, three down at noon, shot a brilliant 34 going out to go two up on Leonard Crawley, at the fifth hole, and then closed out his 44-year-ol opponent, 5 and 3.

Assures At Least Tie

Bagel, six up on Gerald Micklem, English amateur champion, at noon, went on to beat him 6 and 5. Willie Turnesa, also six up on Cecil Ewing, at the end of the morning round, scored the third American win, 6 and 5. Dick Chapman, two up on Percy Lucas at the 18th, shot a 35 going out in the afternoon and then scored the fourth victory, 4 to 3, assuring the Americans at least a tie.

The cheers that accompanied his triumph scarcely had died when Quick stopped Wilson on the 30th green to give the United States its 10th victory in the 11 times the cup matches have been played.

NEW TALKS SOUGHT IN SALTER STRIKE

Marysville Walkout Affects Other Industries.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, May 17—Officials of the strike-bound H. B. Salter Manufacturing Co. here indicated today that a meeting between the company and representatives of the three AFL unions which went on strike Thursday would be called for late this afternoon or Monday.

E. B. Salter, president of the company, returned from a business trip to New Yory yesterday and was reported to have instructed his personnel manager, Ira Bishop, to arrange for a meeting with union representatives.

Meanwhile, operations at the Keller plant, which manufactures plumbing supplies, still were at a standstill today, with only office workers reporting for work. A union official was reported to have said that starting Monday, pickets would prevent all persons, with the exception of Salter and Ted Bardin, assistant general manager, from entering the building.

Work stoppage at the Salter plant today began to pinch other manufacturing concerns dependent on the company's operations. The National Brass Manufacturing Co. of Bellefontaine whose output is taken over by the Salter firm, closed last night. The Union Screw Co. of Marysville, with approximately 75 per cent of its output taken over by the Salter company, may have to close next week unless the strike is settled, it was reported. The Glauber Brass Manufacturing Co. at Kinsman, near Warren, a division of the Salter firm, will close Monday, a union official was quoted as saying. The company employes between 400 and 500 persons.

Battleship Oklahoma, Pearl Harbor Victim, Sinks for Last Time

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17—The battleship Oklahoma went down for the last time today.

The once mighty survivor of a sinking in the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor plunged to the bottom at 7:35 a. m. 540 miles out of Honolulu in an area of the Pacific approximately three miles deep.

Abandoned by the navy as a fighting ship, the 33-year-old vessel was under tow to an Oakland, Calif., drydock company for scrapping.

The Coast Guard announced there were no crewmen aboard.

The Oklahoma, launched March 23, 1914, had been reported earlier as listing badly and Young Brothers, Ltd., Honolulu agency which handled her purchase for scrap, had ordered the tugs Hercules and Monarch, which had the ship under tow, to return to Pearl Harbor rather than try to make the mainland. She left Honolulu last Saturday.

Little of the Oklahoma's former might remained for her last voyage.

Her superstructure, including her anti-aircraft batteries, her 10 14-inch guns and 16 5-inch guns, was gone.

Much of her machinery, however, including boilers remained intact. Torpedoed from the air in the Japanese air attack at Pear Harbor, the Oklahoma turned turtle in the shallow water. She was righted and refloated in May, 1943, and rebuilt.

Her sister ship, the Nevada, was torpedoed and boarded in the same disastrous action but succeeded in beaching herself and later was completely refitted.

The Moore Drydock Company of Oakland had purchased the Oklahoma as junk for $46,000 and planned to begin reducing her to scrap in June.

Delegation Planned Farewell

Only this week Joseph Moore Sr., head of the concern, received word a delegation of nearly 500 persons from Oklahoma, headed by Governor Roy J. Turned, had planned to journey here for a last farewell to the gallant battlewagon named after their state.

The Oklahoma and the Nevada, according to "Jane's Fighting Ships," marked a new era in naval construction when they were built. They were the first vessels of the U. S. fleet to "embody the 'everything or nothing' idea in the matter of protection," Jane's noted.

Displacing 29,000 tons, the Oklahoma had an overall length of 583 feet and a beam of 107 feet.

Her fighting complement was 1,301 men.

Her builder was the New York Ship Building Corporation, which laid the keel in October of 1912 and completed the vessel in May of 1916.

RENT OFFICE TO BE CLOSED

Marion Records Will Be Moved To Columbus as Economy Measure.

The Marion rent control office at 198½ West Center street will be closed May 21 and its operations discontinude, Edward F. Wagner, area rent control director, announced today.

Director Wagner said the office was being discontinued on orders from regional rent control headquarters in Cleveland because of "budget difficulties." The same order applies to rent control offices in Newark, Lancaster and Delaware, he said.

Records from Marion are being transferred to the Columbus office and persons seeking information relating to dwelling units may contact the Columbus office, 1037 North High Street, Mr. Wagner said.

Open Two Days

L. E. Halley, district rent control representative, will be at the Marion office on Mondays and Thursdays each week from 1 to 4 p. m. to interview landlords and tenants who have rental problems.

Landlords seeking to evict their tenants still are required to comply with rent regulations for housing, Mr. Wagner pointed out, and copies of eviction notices should be sent to the area rent office in Columbus.

Arrangements have been made with the Veterans Administration office in the Marion building for interviews there for veterans after June 2.

Started In 1943.

Rent control began here May 1, 1943, with John K. Bartram, Marion attorney, in charge. Mrs. Frank Bradley took over the duties of rent control Jan. 15, 1944, and has been in charge of the office ever since. The rent control office formerly was a section of the rationing board, located at 169½ East Center street. When OPA controls were lifted and the rationing board abandoned, the rent control office was moved to its present location on West Center street.

DRIVER HURT AS TRAIN HITS CAR

Kirby Man Found Unconscious 2 Hours After Wreck.

Special to The Star

KENTON, May 17 — Orville Smith, 24, of Kirby was taken to Antonio hospital at midnight Friday after he had been found unconscious at the Chesapeake & Ohio crossing on route 67 a mile south of Upper Sandusky. He was discovered about 11 p. m., and evidently had been unconscious since his auto was struck by the C. & O. "Sportsman" passenger train which passed the crossing about 9:15 last night.

Smith was thrown clear of his auto which was carried 30 yards down the track. The train continued to Columbus, and Wyandot county sheriff's deputies said the crew apparently was unaware the the accident had occurred. Smith had been visiting his mother, Mrs. Matt Smith of near Brownstown, and was enroute home. There are flash signals at the crossing.

The Bringman ambulance of Upper Sandusky took Smith to the hospital. He is suffering from a fractured right leg, possible internal injuries and multiple cuts and abrasions. He has only partially regained consciousness.

INJURED PHYSICIAN HOME FROM MICHIGAN

Dr. Robert T. Gray Returns from St. Ignace by Auto.

Dr. Robert T. Gray returned to his home in Prospect Friday night from his summer cottage near St. Ignace, Mich., where he was injured in a fall early this week. Dr. Gray was accompanied by Mrs. Gray and James Lower of Prospect. Mrs. Gray had chartered a plane from Mansfield airport Tuesday in hopes of saving time on the journey, but the air trip was cancelled after the plane was forced down at Ypsilanti, Mich., by poor weather conditions.

Mrs. Gray made the remainder of the trip by automobile and then sent for her automobile, which she had left at Mansfield airport in anticipation of making the return trip by plane. She said the entire trip was uneventful except for her unscheduled change of transportation.

Doctor Gray was resting at his home today, and was to undergo an examination to determine the extent of his injuries, Mrs. Gray said. He injured his back in a fall from a ladder while painting his cottage, according to Mrs. Gray.

Remorse Over Prank Costs Man His Life

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., May 17 — Apparently as a prank, Lenville Atkins, 31, threw a stray dog into swirling flood waters below the Huffman dam today.

As he stood watching the animal frantically trying to swim to safety, Atkins suffered remorse and jumped into the water to save the dog.

But Atkins lost his strength in the churning stream and cried for help.

James Taylor, one of three companions, dived in to rescue Atkins. Atkins sank from sight, and the two other men—Calvin Duncan and Thomas Terry—had to pull out Taylor.

The dog swam ashore, several hundred feet downstream, and returned to watch the search for Atkins. But the man had drowned.

Truman's Absence Holds Up Signing of Greek Aid

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 17—President Truman's absence from Washington at the bedside of his mother in Grandview, Mo., will delay his signing of the $400,000,000 Greek-Turkish assistance bill.

Eben Ayers, presidential aide, told reporters today that Mr. Truman had planned to sign the measure Monday or Tuesday. He said the ceremony will be postponed pending the outcome of Mrs. Martha Truman's illness. The President flew to Grandview today to be with her.

Congress gave final approval to the measure Thursday, so Mr. Truman has 10 days in which to affix his signature and make it law. Meanwhile, he is sending a director of the aid program, whose confirmation must be confirmed by the senate.

Fresh Money To Revive Postal Service, Cut As Funds Ran Out

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 17—Fresh money will soon be flowing into the postal service, curtailed in many parts of the country because funds for this fiscal year have been exhausted.

The senate late yesterday put through a $135,000,000 deficiency bill designed to carry numerous divisions of the government through the fiscal year ending next June 30. Included was $69,163,100 for the postoffice department.

The bill was previously passed by the house and now goes to a senate-house conference committee for adjustment of differences on individual items.

The pinch in the postoffice department came when it developed that many postal districts had far underestimated their need for "extra help" and for new mail services required by newly built residential areas.

Large Increase Cited

Acting Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson told a reporter today that, in many postoffices, the winter business of late 1946 and early 1947 had shown 25 to 30 per cent increases not counted on in advance.

On the basis of these reports Donaldson more than a month ago sent a circular letter to all postmasters directing them to save money wherever possible to keep the operations within the appropriated funds. Meanwhile, the department asked for a deficiency appropriation.

The local service curtailments which followed included some cuts in the number of daily pickups from street mail boxes and reductions in the deliveries in both business and residential areas.

Postoffice officials emphasized at the time that it was up to the local postmaster to decide how to economize, but Donaldson said his general instructions were that "service to the public should be curtailed as little as possible, while still keeping within the budget."

Must Stay In Budget

"The postmasters have to stay within their allotments," he said, "and we could see no harm in this emergency in giving residential areas one instead of two daily deliveries, as was done during the war, where this was necessary to stay within the budget.

"The curtailments were made where we have not given the postmasters as much as they asked for the June quarter."

The acting postmaster general said no over-all compilation of local service curtailments has been made here, but that reports to his office indicate service reductions were "about the same" in most parts of the country.

The bill passed by the senate includes about $10,000,000 for clerk hire in first and second class postoffices and some $28,800,000 for paying city delivery carriers through the end of the fiscal year.

NO CURTAILMENT OF SERVICE HERE

Marion postoffice officials said today service here has not suffered because of the lack of operating funds.

Operations have been curtailed in other sections of central Ohio, however.

In Delaware, all mail deliveries have been reduced to one a day.

TRUMAN VISITS AILING MOTHER

Flies To Bedside After Warning from Doctors Her Condition Is "Serious."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 17—President Truman flew to Grand View, Mo., today, called there by a setback in the condition of his ailing mother.

Mr. Truman left Washington in the presidential plane at 7:45 a. m., and was due in Grandview about four and a half hours later.

He was accompanied by Charles G. Ross and Matthew Connelly, press secretaries.

Suffered Broken Hip

The President's 94-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha E. Truman, suffered a broken hip some time ago and has been bedfast since. The White House physician, Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, is with her.

Mr. Truman decided to fly out after receiving word by telephone at 5:15 a. m. that her condition was becoming worse.

Gen. Graham said in Grandview, Mo. her condition is "very serious."

"Has Tired Heart"

"She is suffering from a tired heart," Gen. Graham said. "Her condition at all times has been serious, but she has been getting along well. We have got her out of bed and into a rocking chair every day.

"I had hopes of getting her to walk, but her heart is extremely weak."

Mrs. Truman fractured a hip in a fall at her home last February. The fracture had healed to the point where the cast was removed a week ago. It was the third fracture Mrs. Truman had suffered in recent years. A hip and a shoulder, respectively were broken in previous falls.

GETS POST AS KELCH QUITS

Floyd C. Moon, Patrol Lieutenant, Named Acting Head by Gov. Herbert.

A former Marion man yesterday was appointed chief enforcement officer of the Ohio liquor department by Governor Thomas J. Herbert, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus.

He is Lieut. Floyd C. Moon, 47-year-old state highway patrol officer of Columbus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Moon of 232 Pennsylvania avenue.

He succeeds William J. Kelch, who resigned yesterday to become a sergeant of the Cleveland police department. Lt. Moon was immediately appointed acting head of the liquor enforcement division. Kelch, who will continue to draw his state salary based on the $3,000-a-year job until May 31, was relieved, effective Monday.

Mutual Agreement

Governor Herbert declined to concede that Kelch resigned "under pressure." He asserted: "I would rather say that it was mutually arrived at." Kelch had been granted a leave of absence by the Cleveland police department to join forces with Liquor Director Stanley B. Cufall last Jan. 16.

Lieut. Moon left Marion approximately 12 years ago and now is in charge of the plain clothes division of the state highway patrol. While in Marion he was employed at the Fairfield Engineering Co. He was graduated from Harding High school in 1928, is married and has one son, two years old. A brother, Edward H. Moon, lives at 210 Nell avenue and a sister, Mrs. Clifford Borland, on Sheridan road.

On Patrol Since 1934

Lieut. Moon has been with the state highway patrol since 1934 and now is on a 90-day leave of absence. During the recent drive against private club liquor permits, led by Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins, Moon was the chief raiding officer. About 70 license revocations resulted. In wartime he was one of the highway patrol's top men investigating subversive activities.

During recent investigations by the Ohio senate liquor investigating committee Kelch was the target of many controversial statements. One former enforcement officer, Edmund E. Schuster, termed Kelch "The straw that broke the camel's back." Governor Herbert said Kelch would remain on the payroll until the end of May because he "had some vacation credit" coming.

Boyle Finds Promised Land—Tax-Free Town!

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

CHANUTE, Kan., May 17—You don't have to pay a city tax to live here and no resident has paid one since 1930.

But the city isn't in debt. It doesn't owe anybody a cent and has some $350,000 to $400,000 in its treasury.

Hal Boyle

Chanute a beacon of civic prosperity in an America of debt-ridden communities, is the only debt-free, tax-free municipality of its size (11,000) in Kansas.

It didn't get that way through siphoning off part of the take from gambling dens and race tracks, as have some Florida and Nevada communities. Gambling is illegal in Kansas.

Chanute put itself into the black ink side of the civic ledger by going into business for itself. It took over the ownership of its own public utilities—water, gas electricity—and pays for the cost of all municipal government through earnings from these services.

Rates Within Average

"But our utility rates are well within the average charged by other municipalities throughout the state," said Ross Cooper, 45, city clerk, "and most citizen approve of our way of paying city government costs."

These costs are about $125,000 a year, including police and fire department expenditures, but they measure only partly the earnings of the city-owned utilities.

Chanute issued $44,000 in bonds to build a water plant in 1893. It bought out a private gas company in 1899 by threatening to build its own municipal plant.

In 1903 the city took $32,000 from its municipal gas company earnings to buy out an unsuccessful private electric power company.

"The owner was glad to sell for $32,000," said Cooper. "Now our electric power plant is worth at least $2,000,000."

Other Values Step Up

The water and wus plants have similarly increased in value.

The city owed $480,000 when it ceased levying taxes in 1930.

That bonded indebtedness had been reduced to zero by the beginning of this year.

Utility earnings also purchased a $90,000 municipal airport, one of the first in southeast Kansas, a $375,000 municipal building and war memorial which serves as a community center, a $50,000 city swimming pool with submarine lights, a $15,000 city warehouse, a $25,000 municipal library and other improvements.

A $500,000 program is now under way to double the output of the municipal power plant and permit it to extend its operations further into rural areas.

Sell Power to Others

"We are now selling electric power to four nearby communities and also have about 350 rural customers," said Cooper.

The city is hard-boiled about its utility service and doesn't coddle clients.

"We think we can get service started faster to a new customer than any other company," said Cooper, "and we can turn it off faster too.

"We've educated the public to pay their bills. If the bill isn't settled by the 27th of each month, we cut them off without notice or argument. The people approve of that—and like it too.

"We have pioneered in lots of things, and we think we have a pretty good city here."

School Bond Issue Loses in Delaware Co.

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., May 17—Voters in Orange and Liberty townships, Delaware county, turned down a bond issue to build a centralized school building in the year-old Union school district when they went to the polls on Wednesday for a special election. The vote was 734 in favor of the project and 440 opposed. The measure required a 65 per cent majority for passage.

Heavy opposition in the Powell community killed wide majorities in other parts of the district. The number of votes cast was only slightly under the number cast in the last presidential election. The proposal will be submitted to voters again in the November election.

Job Benefits Down in April

Marion Office Reports Payments Decline 11.9 Per Cent in Month.

Payments of unemployment benefits in the Marion area decreased 11.9 per cent during April with payments totaling $14,715.46, according to Manager Fred B. Scherff of the local office of the Ohio State Employment Service, a division of the bureau of unemployment compensation.

The average number of weekly benefit recipients in Marion totaled 187 during April, a decline of 13 per cent.

Manager Scherff said referrals by the employment service division of the local office during April resulted in placing 222 workers in jobs, compared to 220 in March. Of the April placements 45 were women and of the March placements 44 were women.

On May 1, there were 557 workers, including 146 females and 225 veterans, registered for employment at the Marion office. On April 1, there were 662 workers, including 151 women and 280 veterans registered for employment.

The decrease in the number of claimants and the decrease in the number of workers registered for employment in the Marion office indicates a trend toward a tightening labor market, according to Mr. Scherff.

The Ohio State Employment Service filled 28,842 new jobs throughout the state during April. Dale Dunifon, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, reported to Governor Herbert.

Three industry groups accounted for nearly all of the 10 per cent gain over March in new hires. Placement increases were noted in construction, wholesale and retail trade, and in domestic service.

Of a total of 18,284 job orders for men filled during April, 8,674 were veterans.

The total number of job seekers registered with the Ohio State Employment Service throughout the state has been dropping for three consecutive months, reaching 106,658 at the end of April.

VA Drives To Renew Veterans' Insurance

Since March 1, 1947, the veterans administration has been conducting a campaign designed to acquaint veterans of World War II with the importance of retaining or reinstating their national service life insurance, it was announced today by Samuel Manning, contact representative in charge of the Marion VA office. He said many changes have been made recently by amendments to the original insurance law of 1940, and that it was to the advantage of veterans to investigate their rights pertaining to insurance benefits. Among the recent changes are lump sum payment, upon death, to the beneficiary; reinstatement with only two monthly premium payments; availability of six different types of insurance—including three endowment plans; and many other attractive features.

A service-connected disability no effect upon a veteran's application for reinstatement or for less than total in degree will have new insurance under the present law. Mr. Manning emphasized the fact that the present reinstatement privileges were only available until Aug. 1, 1947.

Married Couples in 10 States Get "Break" on Income Taxes

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, May 17—Married couples in 10 states pay lower federal income taxes than couples in the other 38.

That's because couples in those 10—called community property states — can divide their income to get a lower tax rate. Here's how:

James Marlow

Papa makes $10,000 a year, Mama makes nothing. At income tax time mama claims half the $10,000 as her income.

So each pays tax on only $5,000, instead of Papa paying tax on $10,000. This makes the total tax on the family smaller.

This is unfair to couples in the other 38 states where they can't split their income. In those states each must claim what he makes as his.

Congress talks now of giving couples in those 38 states the same break those in the 10 get. Don't expect it this year. Maybe next year.

10 "Lucky States"

There are the 10 community property states: Arizona, Idaho, California, Nevada, Louisiana, New Mexico, Washington, Texas, Oklahoma, Oregon.

The first eight have had community property laws for years. Oklahoma adopted the system several years ago, Oregon just this year.

This is how couples in 38 states get stuck for higher taxes than couples in the other 10.

Jones, married, with two children, lives in Texas, a community property state. His net 1946 income, after expenses, was $10,000.

His wife claimed $5,000 as hers. Jones and his wife filed separate returns, each paying tax on $5,000. Total tax: $1,178.

New Yorker Stuck

But here's Smith, married, with two children, living in New York, which is not a community property state.

Like Jones, Smith's net income was $10,000. His wife couldn't claim any of it. He had to pay tax on his $10,000 income.

Smith's tax was $1,862, or $684 more than Jones' tax.

Right after World War I the government's internal revenue bureau, which collects taxes, challenged the community property laws.

The supreme court upheld the laws.

It found those laws went way back to French and Spanish days in this country and had not been cooked up to get cheaper taxes.

Existed Before Taxes

In short, they had been in existence before there were any income taxes.

Losing out with the court, the revenue bureau asked congress by law to force community property state couples to lump their income in one return.

Congress wouldn't do it.

But as income taxes have climbed through the years, the discrimination against the people in non-community property states has become sharper.

To make the whole thing equal, congressmen in their session have offered a number of bills which would:

Let couples in all states get the same reductions which now only couples in the 10 community property states get.

The treasury department, which includes the internal revenue bureau, isn't opposing these congressional ideas.

The total reduction, due to such a change, would cost the government about $1,000,000,000 a year in income taxes. Congress may act next year.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Hay Fever

HAY FEVER is a disease about which myths, half-truths and superstitions cluster like bees around a hive. People—at least great numbers of them—don't know what sort of condition it is, and they are likely to be misled further by statements from well-meaning but misinformed friends and relatives.

Misunderstanding the nature of hay fever, they try doubtful remedies which promise "quick and sure" relief instead of going to their doctors and getting what real help is available to them.

The first thing to understand about hay fever is that there are to date no easy, speedy or permanent cures for it. There are, however, treatments which will make the hay fever victim any number of times more comfortable than he would be without them.

According to Dr. Paul D. Fleming of Texas, proper treatment can completely relieve about three-fourths of those with hay fever of all symptoms, and greatly improve a large number of the remainder.

Proper treatment for hay fever is based on the fact that it is an allergy, that is, due to over-sensitivity to pollen from some plant, or some other substance, which the patient breathes in.

These irritating substances cause attacks of sneezing with a great deal of discharge. Trouble usually starts about the middle of August and continues until the middle of September. In most cases those who are affected are sensitive to pollen from ragweed, though Dr. Fleming states that there is a distinct tendency among hay fever victims to develop sensitivity to pollen which occurs at other seasons and even to dusts and animal danders.

Dr. Fleming recommends that all patients with hay fever be studied to determine if possible, to what substances they are sensitive. The use of skin tests is helpful in determining these facts. These tests are made by injecting pollen extracts into the skin and noting whether a red swelling develops at the point of infection. Once the pollen causing the trouble is determined, injections under the skin of the pollen extract in gradually increasing doses should be started.

This treatment is best carried out if done the year 'round. However, it may be started at the height of the hay fever season. For best results, however, the average patient should start treatment at least two months before the onset of the next hay fever season.

Hay fever may occur at any age. The majority of cases develop in patients under 20 years of age. After the age of 40, it is unusual for a real allergic disorder to first develop. In 100 children with allergy up to the age of 10 years, 38 had hay fever, and in 16 instances the condition was diagnosed before the children were three years of age.

Hay fever is not outgrown, although as children reach adolescence of the maturing period, the symptoms may become less severe for a time.

While hay fever is not a serious disorder, it is a most uncomfortable one. Fortunately it is a condition that can be alleviated to a great extent, if sufferers will get rid of their hopes for some magic cure-all and seek help from their physicians.

Look at it like this:

When you and your best girl roll up in this tidy number, how can folks help saying: "Who's the smart couple in the slick new Buick?"

Or when it's up to you to do the generous thing, what quartet wouldn't be glad to ride with the two of you — in the neatest, freshest bit of automobile styling on the roads today?

Fact is, this trim Buick Sedanet combines topmost smartness and companionability with an amazing amount of room.

Back of its big, Fireball-filled bonnet there's room for six—cleaned in sleek, fade-away lines that suggest a coupe.

Under your treadle foot, there's all the eager, velvety power your heart desires, and each light-stepping wheel rides on its own soft cushion of jar-taming coiled steel.

There's huskiness to level your going—room for arms, heads and legs — lightness of handling you wouldn't think possible in a car so impressive and so sizable.

So come take a look. See, firsthand, why this is America's most wanted automobile.

See too why it's smart to settle your mind on Buick — and get your order in now. You can place yours with or without a car to trade.

Everybody's Wiser

THE telephone workers who left their jobs under a strike plan to force national bargaining are supposed to get back to them the best way they can. The strike plan has been abandoned. Local bargaining, ignored at the outset, can't make up for the time lost. Telephone workers are taking it in the neck.

They are learning the truth of the saying that no one wins a long strike. They have learned something about national strikes and something about national unions; namely, that a mistake in strategy on the part of one man or a few men can hurt from coast to coast. The public has been learning something, too.

Genuine collective bargaining has been restored in the United States. The telephone properties were not seized, as many expected they would be. The government did not force a settlement. It made its service available to expedite a settlement but did not force one. Nor did the public demand seizure, due largely to the fact that telephone service can be given indefinitely with a fraction of normal personnel.

Everybody is wiser—the telephone workers, their employers, and the public. Everybody has lost something—the people who lost wages, the companies that lost income, and the public that lost service.

More on Oleo

IN WHAT may be a move to counteract some of the pressure for legalizing the sale of colored oleo in Ohio, there is in circulation a pamphlet titled "Colored Oleo Sold as Butter." The pamphlet, which has a cover the color of 92-score butter, is published by the National Cooperative Milk Producers Association.

Judging from its graphic illustrations, there are some very sinister people involved in the illegal aspects of the oleo industry—definite criminal types who skulk in the dark of the moon, mix their oleaginous masses in filthy cellars and even have access to bombs.

Actually, however, the facts set forth in the pamphlet are not germane to Ohio's case. Its very first statement says "You have the right to buy oleomargarine if you wish . but you have the right to know that it is oleomargarine." That's fair enough.

We also have the right to buy artificial vanilla extract in lieu of pure if we wish. There are efficient controls to prevent mislabeling. And there is no lobby bringing pressure to bear on the legislature to require that all artificial vanilla be colored purple.

Hunting Hollywood Reds

SO FAR the un-American activities committee hasn't found anything very spectacular in its search for Hollywood Reds. Not one subversionist has been trapped beside his swimming pool, and no one has been found referring to Beverly Hills as Beverly Steppes.

The only film mentioned so far is "Song of Russia," which some may remember as a musical film, with a plot at insane as most and large, amorphous blobs of Tchaikowsky floating around on top like clotted cream on a Russian dessert. The dialog did mention in passing that the Russians were brave people, which nobody denied then or denies now.

Actor Richards Arlen said he told the committee Hollywood Communists have influence out of proportion to their numbers because they are well organized. Ginger Rogers' mother said her daughter had to insist on the alteration of Communist-slanted scenes in some of her pictures. There was no indication that anybody named names.

If the committee should unearth a real live Hollywood Communist who is drawing down a weekly salary in four figures, it would be interesting to hear him at length in an effort to find out what makes him what he is.

Now to the Conference

THE SENATE passes its version of the labor bill by a 68-24 vote and now the conferees prepare to reconcile the differences between it and the house bill. They have the house's strong bill and the senate's moderately strong measure, so the result probably will be somewhere between the two.

Both measures have brought cries of protest from such disparate individuals as Harold Ickes and Milton Berle. The objection has been raised that either measure would make unions "slave labor"; that union gains won at great cost would be surrendered, and that both bills favor only the employer.

This is the old cry that will not be made any truer by repetition. Labor unions would not lose rights they are entitled to in any legislation congress can make into law. Some of the abuses union leaders resorted to in New Deal years would be banned. Some of the prerogatives they took unto themselves which discommoded the nation as a whole would be made illegal. Union leaders would have to develop a sense of responsibility commensurate with their power. After reading the 1946 election returns, that's all congress asks, because it believes that's what the voters, who elected it, ask.

The Muffled Voice of America

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Privately Sponsored Broadcasts Suggested.

THE pleas of President Truman and of Secretary Marshall may be sufficient to continue the international broadcasts of the state department, but prospects are none too good. The senate may restore some of the cuts made by the house in this appropriation request, but a compromise is the best that can be expected.

Thus, the so-called Voice of America will be a greatly limited instrument. The government will still have immense broadcasting stations, built for war purposes and capable of reaching much of the world's surface. It will have only limited facilities for building programs to be broadcast over those stations.

Two factors have contributed to the muffling of the Voice of America. One is the obvious necessity of cutting into all budget requests in the interest of economy. The other is the fact that past broadcasts are the subject of criticism, some just and some unjust.

It is inevitable that broadcasts wholly managed at government expense will be subject to unfair, often sensational criticism. The Voice of America broadcasts are aimed not at Americans, but at Russians, Turks, Poles, Germans and what not. Disagreement about subject matter is inevitable.

Henry Wallace's life history may appear to many Americans to be a subject which should not be broadcast at government expense. But a review of the recent book on the Wallace family might be a means of attracting Russian attention. That was why the state department included such a review in a broadcast. It might have been a tactical mistake when the appropriation was pending before congress. But it was probably sincerely intended.

Another criticism, and a just one, is that the people who make the broadcasts are not the people who make policy. American foreign policy is being made, but it is incomplete. It is not clearly defined, largely because in a world of bargaining it cannot be declared in its entirety. Hence, the Voice of America cannot really be the voice of American diplomacy.

Difficult Understanding

An added difficulty is the fact that the explanation of our history and political institutions is bound to be a sterile subject to teach to foreigners, especially to Russians and Orientals. This writer tried, over a good many years, to teach our institutions to European immigrants and visitors. It is not easy. And it converts very few to democratic ways.

Our products, not our form of government, are of most interest to foreigners. An American automobile in the streets of Moscow will attract more attention than all the discourses on the American Constitution that could be printed or spoken over the air. Foreigners are, unfortunately, more intrigued by what we make than by what we are.

Private Sponsorship Suggested

Hence, the suggestion has arisen that a major part of our broadcasts should be privately sponsored. The government's mechanical facilities would be used, for they are built and for security reasons must be maintained. Programs prepared by American industries and paid for by them might well be broadcast. Industry's stake would be prospective future sales abroad, and that is a big stake for all of us. A "Cavalcade of America" or a "Harvest of Stars" would be good listening for the world and would help Uncle Sam's pocketbook.

Just a Minute

And So Now It's

The Late Senator Overton

Washington went on daylight saving time this week.

Everybody, that is, but Louisiana's Senator Overton.

Senator Overton is a Cows' Rights man.

Daylight saving time, says he, disrupts milking schedules and confuses the cows. In fact, he intimates, it is an udder injustice.

While I do not agree with the senator, on daylight saving, I find his solicitude for cows quite touching, especially since they cannot vote.

Republicans are particularly proud of their action on daylight saving. It was the first real economy they've been able to effectuate.

Congress demonstrated its versatility in taking time out from debate on labor legislation to okay daylight saving for the District of Columbia. It can set clocks up an hour or unions back 20 years.

At any rate, everyone in the capitol is now on Daylight Saving except Senator Overton, who is on a high-horse. That "My Time Is Your Time" stuff may be all right for Rudy Vallee, but not for the gentleman from Louisiana.

Can We Do the Job?

The Master Plan

By STEWART ALSOP

This is the last of three columns summarizing Stewart Alsop's conclusions after three months in the Middle East and England.

IF THE "Truman Doctrine" of containing Soviet political imperialism is to succeed, it must be followed to its logical conlusion. And if it is to be followed to its logical conclusion, the United States must have some new technique for implementing it financially. One reason why this is so may be sensed from the remark of one experienced British diplomat in the Middle East. The Americans had made a hard choice in the Greek-Turkish aid policy, but the only possible choice. "But my God," he added, "what a way to go about it!"

No doubt in the back of his mind was the startling contrast between the British financial approach to the Greek problem and the new American approach. So quietly was it done that only after the Greek crisis came to a head did it become known that since the end of the war, counting all expenditures, the British had poured into Greece the fantastic total of $760,000,000 in the pound-sterling equivalent. Thus it is not surprising that the British (very few of whom have ever really grasped how the American political system works) were genuinely surprised and shocked to find that a request for one-third of this amount from the American congress was accompanied by an enormous hullaballoo and that the policy of aid to Greece was made to seem hardly less than a declaration of war on the Soviet Union.

Shows Weakness

This British reaction is interesting only in that it serves to demonstrate the basic weakness inherent in the present technique of implementing American economic foreign policy. The British themselves, as their leading economists in Greece were willing to admit, made a vast miscalculation in handling their economic policy in Greece; they attempted unsuccessfully to buy time in installments, and without any master plan, against an overall world settlement. The United States cannot afford to make the same mistake on a world scale.

For it is obvious that what is true of Greece and Turkey is likewise true in many other parts of the world; in Korea, in China, in the Middle East as a whole, possibly in Italy and France. If the "Truman Doctrine" is to work it must be applied, according to a well thought-out master plan, in these and other parts of the world. But no master plan is possible if there is to be a piecemeal approach. And above all, world peace will hardly survive a long series of Greek crisis, with the congress being bludgeoned and frightened every six months or so into sticking a costly finger into some new hole in the dike.

Yet no instrumentality now exists for pursuing any other course. The chief financial instruments are the Export-Import bank and the World bank. One is American, the other international (although as the biggest investors in the World bank the American influence there is evidently preponderant). Aside from the fact that neither institute has much left in the kitty, both suffer from the same limitation. For a reasonable certainty of the return of money lent is a requirement for both. Thus the operations of the Export-Import bank and the World bank must necessarily be concerned with good financial risks. Yet the areas of the world most closely threatened by Soviet political imperialism are precisely those which are bad financial risks. The United States is thus in the position of having committed itself to a policy and of having at the same time no way to make this policy work.

Reduced to its simplest terms, the reasoning behind the developing American policy runs like this. As long as the present post-war economic misery continues, the opportunity for worldwide expansion of the Soviet Union through the medium of its political instrument, the Communist parties of the world, continues. Therefore, just as it is in the interest of the United States to make a determined effort to get the war-wrecked economy of the world back on its feet. There is nothing academic in this assessment.

Two recent developments underline the urgency of the crisis which threatens the Western world. One is the growing monetary crisis described in a recent report in this space. The other is the mounting evidence that the Communist party line is about to make one of its historic shifts. The real meaning of the French crisis is that there is now a strong likelihood that in those countries where their hold over the labor movements is tight, the Communists may soon discard their policy of off-again-on-again collaboration with governments of which they form a part, and use their power in the labor movements to reduce the slowly recovering national economies to chaos.

Bubble Warmth

Drowning isn't the only peril in being cast into the sea—as so many were during the war. The icy waters of the north Atlantic are chilling and killing to the body. The Germans had a foam suit that helped keep the wearer warm for two or three hours in ocean water. The powder, in the middle layer of a three-layer garment, was a mixture of chemicals, including baking soda and acid crystals, that foamed on contact with sea water, and the resulting blanket of bubbles formed insulation to conserve the warmth of the wearer's body. — O. Need for Europe's Unification

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THERE are compelling practical reasons why this country is moving toward a policy of European union. It has become increasingly clear that there can be no German settlement except within a framework of European unity organized by the European neighbors of Germany. Simultaneously, it is becoming evident that the United States cannot deal effectively with the impending financial crisis if it has to deal separately with the United Kingdom, France, Italy, and the western zones of Germany.

Yet work on the German settlement must be resumed in the autumn. The financial crisis will call for congressional action at the very latest early in 1948. For these two events of transcendent importance, it is now necessary to prepare by the clarification of ideas, the formulation of policy, the elaboration of plans and an immense amount of consultation and preliminary negotiation. The formative idea in all of this is bound to be not—as it has been—the unification of Germany, or the organization of a coalition of "democracies" against the Soviet Union, but the revival of Europe through a developing union of the nations of Europe.

There are many reasons for the unification of Europe—some of which were restated this week by Mr Churchill with all the pomp and circumstance of his grandest eloquence. But there are also specific American reasons, arrived at independently and empirically, for promoting unification in Europe.

New Loans Likely

The first has to do with the coming demand upon us—as the British loan and the various other credits and donations run out in the next few months—for a large contribution of new dollars to save Europe from collapse and to bring about that reconstruction which has thus far failed.

This new American contribution will need to be large by post-war standards: The authorizations will need to be somewhere in the order of four to seven billions annually for at least two or three years.

We may assume that Congress will not vote these authorizations, nor would the people approve them, if they are to be used to made doles to the various governments to tide them over for a little while longer. Nor will the self-respecting people of Eurpoe wish to receive American help in a form which makes them dependents living on remittances from the United States.

But if, under the leadership of the two principal European states—Great Britain and France—agreements can be reached which co-ordinate and rationalize the production plans, the export and import programs, and consolidate the dollar deficits of many European countries, the position here would be quite different.

The American people would then feel that the contribution of new money would be an investment in the reorganization of Europe, and that it offered a good prospect of political peace and of economic solvency. They would be contributing the new funds to a new entity—to an oraganization of Europe that was helping itself and was likely to succeed.

A second American reason has to do with the Germany problem. Here we now see what perhaps we did not see at Potsdam and even at Stuttgart, that the amputation of the eastern territories of Germany by the Soviet Union and Poland makes it impossible to restore in the rest of Germany a unified national state governed by national parties in a German legislature based on national elections.

For if we agree to the political unification of what remains of Germany, this amputated Germany must inevitably, will inexorably, have as its dominating purpose, as its own unifying principle, the recovery of the eastern territories. No national party could have any other national objective. No German politician could qualify as a patriot who did not work for the restoration of the unity of all the former German lands.

No Possible Peace

Such a Germany can never be peaceable. For the lost provinces can only be recovered by violence—by war in which the Germans participate against Russia and Poland, or by a deal between Berlin and Moscow for another partition of Poland. Logic, strategy, historic experience, and also the subterranean Communist propaganda in Germany, all lead to the conclusion that another Rapallo agreement, another Ribbentrop-Molotov pact, would be a constant possibility to threaten the peace of the world.

So when Mr. Molotov accuses us of wishing to dismember Germany and of opposing the national unification of Germany, our answer is that Germany has had a tremendous amputation, and that German unity cannot now be restored except by the partition of Poland. Therefore, though we would like to rectify the German-Polish frontier somewhat to make Germany more self-supporting, we want the frontier to be permanent after that. It cannot be permanent if a partially united Germany is forever working behind the backs of the Poles, offering Moscow the tempting prospect of an alliance based on another partition of Poland.

If Germany cannot be restored safely as a unified state, then there is no alternative but to do what the French have always wanted, what in essence our general view of Germany has always required, what Mr. Churchill called for in his speech: To invite the "various individual German states," which are now being created, or rather revived, "to take their place . . . . without prejudice to any future question of German federation . . . . in the council of Europe."

Daily Bible Thought

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Idea for a New Radio Hit

The broadcasting of vegetable, fruit and poultry prices at market terminals is an early morning radio feature (the one into which one inadvertently tune while looking for news and jazz). "Jersey radishes, fancy, 12 cents a bunch" and radio is missing a bet in not applying the idea to living costs generally. For instance:

"This is Elmer Twitchell giving you the regular morning quotations, when, as and may. Hamburgers were in demand at rising prices. Choice hamburgers, 80 to 75 cents a patty, cut out toast . medium to fair hamburgers, with red meat spotty, 10 to 60 cents . low grade or run-of-the-mill hamburgers, pale to sallow, 5 to 40 cents. . .

"Ham and eggs in fair supply with the eggs available by certified check. Omelettes were of generally low level. Four-minute boiled, call a buck to 75 cents with bits of shell thrown in. Buttered toast, 10 to 15 cents, with butter substitutes.

French fries, soggy to grease-logged, 20 to 40 cents a mess. Mashed potatoes, fancy, 30 cents a dab. Baked Idahos (Connecticut) $1 cows and $1 a week for fifty-two weeks.

Bar prices firm to strong. Fresh young egg-balls, well watered, plain, 60 cents a shot, fancy 75 cents. Old-fashioned cocktails, compose with reconditioned fruit slices, 85 cents. Served with late December cherry and little real lump 85 cents to $1.25. Beer, early spring, Hoboken and Gowanus, 10 to 25 cents in the headless varieties. With heads half to inch deep, 33 cents.

"Haircuts and shaves in moderate demand with no drop in rates. Choice May haircuts were 60 cents to a dollar a clip. Fair haircuts held at around 50 cents. Crew haircuts, fresh, were steady at around 80 to 90 cents. . Shaves were firm.

"Laundry prices opened higher and remained incredible. White shirts, fairly presentable, brought 45 to 60 cents, with or without getting both sleeves back. Bed sheets, lightly dipped and ironed by trip-hammer, 70 to 90 cents a rip. Choice rips were higher.

"Hats, shoes, socks, ties, underwear were spotty. Prices for suits without extra pants were all the traffic would bear. A few cuts in men's bathrobes were offered at $85 in midget sizes.

"Rents, transportation, gasoline, medicines and other necessities, fancy, medium and catch-as-catch-can remained firm to unendable. Drinking water in ready supply. Air (for breathing) was fortunately free in most regions."

Let's Ask Mother

By TRUMAN TWILL

The nation has survived another Mother's Day. Now that it's past, let's all admit that what has happened to Mother's Day in the hands of its promoters shouldn't happen to a Republican in Alabama.

A liquor store in New York City advertised a special Mother's Day package—a fifth of gin, a fifth of rum, a fifth of rye. Sentimentalists were urged to buy their mothers everything from a ham to a set of automobile seat covers. Mother's Day was tied up to everything but the Newburyport plan. If mothers didn't have, as a whole, a robust sense of humor, they'd have gagged on the raw deal.

Instead of appreciating the loot they get, much of it useless and most of it unwanted, a great many mothers must be more inclined to fetch a deep sigh and wish that instead of presents one day a year they could get a little more cooperation and loving kindness from their families the other 364 days.

It's not that they don't like the stuff that is unloaded on them, but all too often the stuff is an easy out for sons and daughters who forget all about their mothers until they notice by the advertisements it's time to remember again.

The least that can be done if Mother's Day is here to stay, is to appoint a fair practices committee of bona fide mothers to examine every thing done in their name and throw out the gross insults as packages of selected booze in their remembrance.

It might turn out that mothers themselves are getting fed up with the intensively-organized over-commercialization of their day and that it's time to call it off before it's run into the ground. Maybe they'd rather make it something more to their taste, like being treated for a few hours as if they weren't Whistler's Mother but a mother to be whistled at.

Their idea of a real Mother's Day might be to get a fraction of the care they are expected to give the other members of their families, including the helpless men they married for reasons which sometimes aren't easy to recall.

They might even be in favor of skipping the whole thing and reverting to their former status—women who have borne children, a matter which hardly justifies any special fuss, in view of the number of times it has happened.

Berlin Police Uncover Fats Racket

By The Associated Press

BERLIN—A new racket to obtain fats which are scarce and strictly rationed has been uncovered by Berlin police. Stores have been warned against men posing as controllers for the Municipal Food department who have been demanding samples of butter and margarine for "inspection," and then walking off with the "samples" allegedly for laboratory tests.

U. S. Curbs Adoptions

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT—Large numbers of American soldiers and their wives are trying to adopt German children in the U. S. occupation zone.

A statement issued by the military government of Hesse said adoption would not be permitted until a uniform policy for the entire zone was formulated.

Wanted — A Revival!

A Sermonette

BY REV. ALBERT M. HOOD

Pastor of Second Pilgrim Holiness Church

Text:—Habakkuk 3:2 "—O Lord, revive Thy work in the midst of the years."

A REVIVAL is a return to vigor and activity, especially from a state of languor or neglect, so with this thought in mind, we of today can well cry out with the prophet, "O Lord, wilt Thou not revive Thy work?"

Our present day is filled with education, science, arts, wealth and well being, but we have to go far in finding true deep spirituality; a spirituality that comes from God, that puts man at a state of peace with God and man.

• Figures show that 60 per cent of the American people have membership in some church, yet only 8 per cent of the people attend Sunday morning services and only 2 per cent attend any Sunday evening services; 70 per cent of the seats in the churches are not being used on Sunday morning, and 75 per cent are probably in the number that do not support the church with their presence or active encouragement. These startling and revealing figures should drive us to our knees, pleading for God's revival in our midst.

God's plan calls for the tithe or 10 per cent of our income, while statistics show that only $1.50 out of every $100 is given either to church or a welfare institution. Can we expect God to honor or bless us, when we withhold what He asks and what belongs to Him?

The prophet waiting before God knew that God had spoken in thundering tones of wrath, yet he pleads for mercy in a revival in the work among the people of God. He knew with Isaiah, 37:15 "For thus saith the high and lofty One, that inhabiteth eternity, whose name is Holy; I dwell in the high and holy place, With Him that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble, and to revive the heart of the contrite ones." Israel had forsaken the Lord, the fountain of living waters, and hewed them cisterns, broken cisterns that can hold no water. The wrath of God displayed brought the plea from the heart of the prophet as he waited humbled and contrite before God. May God help us to humble ourselves before him, pour our heart out in contrition to Him that He might revive His work in our midst.

It is only because "He is long suffering to usward, not willing that any should perish," that we of today are not engulfed by the outpoured wrath of a just God. Knowing that God looks on the conditions that gives us the statements above, let us look to God for mercy in a mighty revival ere we see His mighty out-poured wrath.

A revival of a personal knowledge of God. "The people that do know their God shall be strong and do exploits." Daniel 11:2. Reviving the knowledge of the fullness, power, and glory of our great God in a personal relationship with Him.

A revival of turning to God's Word. The Psalmist stated, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path." He further states that "Thy word have I hid in mine heart that I might not sin against Thee." While the Bible is the First Book of the world today, it is but a mere book to the millions who look on it. Many look upon the Word as though it were deep dark caverns that could not be understood and they are afraid to venture into the wonders of its pages. Christ taught "These are they which testify of Me." "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God and the Word was God." The Word reveals God, Jesus Christ His Son, the Holy Spirit, and God's great plan of redemption. Yea, there is not another source to which we can go for this glorious message.

A revival of personal salvation. Not a mere religion, for when we think of religion we think of the hundreds of religions of the world today, but we say again a personal salvation. A personal turning from sin, to God. A personal born-again experience into the Kingdom of God. Jesus taught "Ye, must be born again." God help us to revive the mourner's bench, where burdened hearts can leave their sins and find forgiveness in a personal salvation.

A revival of walking in the light. "For if we walk in the light as He is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the Blood of Christ cleanseth us from all sin." Multiplied numbers of people are not walking in the light of God's word and truth and do not have that personal walk with God.

A revival of the Abiding Presence of the Holy Ghost, in sanctifying power. "And the very God of peace sanctify you holy." I Thess. 5:23. The Holy Spirit in His consuming power that sweeps into our life and removes all, so that we seek the leadings of the Holy Spirit, the Love of Christ, and the will of God.

A revival of church loyalty. If there are 75 per cent of the people who do not support the church with their presence or active encouragement, they are not heeding the message of Paul, "Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and so much the more as ye see the day approaching." The church is suffering and will suffer because there is the deep need of a revival of church loyalty. If you are a member of a church, ask God to show you your responsibility to that church and revive your heart in loyalty to the church and souls.

Yes, WANTED . . . we plead for, trust God for, humbly waiting in contrition for a gracious revival as we say with the prophet and the Psalmist . . . "Wilt Thou not revive us again?"

Some Practical Suggestions Offered for Low-Cost Home Improvements

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

By W. Wadsworth Wood

There are many ways in which the average suburban house can be improved or made more attractive without the expenditure of much money. It is usually in the spring, that the householder strolls about his place and notices where these improvements or additions would be best; and if the inspection is made with an impersonal eye, and then followed by action, much good can come of it.

More than one-half of the houses we see are what might be called unbalanced. In other words a side porch, or an attached garage, very often draws the outline of the house far off to one side. A definite cure and a sure balance for this defect lies in the building of a pergola on the opposite end of the building. This is a standard architectural remedy for balancing up the silouette of a country house, and a most economical one. In most parts of the country, $15 worth of lumber will produce the pergola illustrated.

There are many cases where a blank wall can be broken up, or made more sightly, by laying a plain lattice trellis against it; and many blank doorways which can be softened by a frame of arched trellis work. If you happen to be a lover of vines or climbing shrubs, it might be worth noting that, from a practical standpoint, it is better to have them climb on trellis work than on the house itself.

Spring usually brings to mind the matter of screening. One of the often-repeated errors made, is that of placing the screens inside of the porch railing or well inside of the porch edge, where there is no rail. All screens belong outside of the rail, so that leaves and twigs will not mat down between the railing and screens. Where the porch does not have a railing the screens should be placed as near the edge as possible so that rain and windborne debris will be shed off.

Plain common sense approves of the latest ideas in screening. The practice used to be to have permanent screens which were nailed into place. Modern practice calls for screens that are built in sections and held in position by hook-and-eyes or by buttons, so that they can be easily removed. The ultra-modern idea is to have frames from which the screening can be removed and glass panels inserted, so that the screened porch may be converted into a sun-parlor for the winter months.

All of these ideas can be carried out economically by making use of standard glazed sash and standard screened sections.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Bleaching a Walnut Dresser

Q. I wish to change an old, American, walnut dresser from a dark, varnish finish to a bleached effect. How should I go about doing this? I cannot employ a professional wood finisher.

A. The old varnish must first be sanded off or else taken off with a liquid varnish remover. After scraping off the softened varnish, wash off every trace of remover with turpentine or benzine, and be very careful of fire. Ventilate the room while working. Then apply a prepared wood bleach, on sale at beter paint stores. After bleaching (follow manufacturer's directions) and allowing ample time for drying, smooth with finest sandpaper to a satin smoothness, and dust off. Finish with top-quality, pure-white shellac, clear lacquer, or a light-colored varnish.

Changing Dresser to Buffet

Q. Would it be possible to change my old, walnut dresser so that it will look like a modern dining-room buffet? It has two smaller drawers at the top and two large drawers, one below the other. (I intend to bleach the piece.)

A. I advise you to visit several furniture stores—also the furniture sections of large department stores—and get a good idea of what you can do with your dresser to modernize it. If the piece is very narrow, it might not give as good an effect as it would if it were somewhat wide. However, after studying the up-to-date pieces on display, you may be able to turn out a fairly presentable job, provided you are experienced with tools.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

A popular ranch-style design for a small plot, this house measures 40 feet wide over all. It was planned by Walter T. Anicka, Ann Arbor, Mich., as his plan No. 607. Intricate detail has been eliminated and space is used to a maximum in an attempt to keep building cost down. The house contains 17,900 cubic feet, which may be used as a guide for cost.

CLOSING OF ROADS IN DAM AREA MAPPED

Commissioners of Three Counties Meet Engineers.

Commissioners of Marion and Delaware counties with engineers of the ... dam yesterday afternoon to discuss the abandonment of roads included in the 8,700-acre flood area of the project.

The meeting was held in the commissioners' office in Delaware. Also attending from Marion county was Walter W. Johnson, county engineer.

The conference was called by ... Huntington, W. Va., engineers to consider changes necessary in county road systems in Marion, Morrow and Delaware counties. Some of the roads will have to be vacated and sections of others relocated. Those roads in Marion county which will be affected lie in the vicinity of Waldo. Marion county commissioners, however, named no specific roads to be vacated. They said they could not be certain what roads would lie in the flood area until project engineers submitted their plan at another conference to be held within the next few weeks.

The reservoir at full flood control level will cover 8,700 acres of land in Delaware, Marion and Morrow counties. The pool will stretch approximately 16 miles upstream from the dam, located on the Olentangy river north of Delaware.

The dam is planned as a flood control and conservation project to impound the waters of the Olentangy river. Cost of the project is estimated at $4,800,000.

NEWARK METAL FIRM PROJECT ABANDONED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 17—Because of a changed market outlook, the Reynolds Metals company has decided it doesn't want the government-built aluminum rod and bar mill near Newark, O., after all.

The company, planning to lease the huge plant for peacetime use, signed "a letter of intent" with the war assets administration last December and went to work on its "rehabilitation."

But yesterday the company put the government agency on notice that it wants to cancel its plans and "work out a termination agreement."

Richard Reynolds, vice president and treasurer, told a reporter the reason was this:

Last year the company had "a big backlog of orders" and wanted the Newark plant to supplement the production of its McCook, Ill., plant. Now orders have dropped off and the demand can be met by the Illinois plant.

"We're sorry about it," he said. "We wanted to operate the plant at Newark but we just don't need it any more."

Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio), with whom Reynolds discussed the situation, said he is filing an objection to "immediate cancellation" and will ask the war assets administration to make "a thorough investigation" before granting the company's request.

Sheep Raisers Reelect Foust

Cardington Man Again Heads Delaware-Morrow-Marion County Association.

Jesse Foust of Cardington, was reelected president of the Delaware-Morrow-Marion Sheep Improvement Association for the third term at the reorganization meeting in Ashley Thursday.

Hubert Osborn of Leonardsburg, was reelected vice president and Henry Brandes of Ashley, reelected secretary-treasurer.

C. F. Flickinger, Producers representative, L. K. Baer and C. W. Hammans, extension specialists, presented and explained the proposed plan of operation for sheep improvement associations now operating in Ohio and the pattern for those to be organized. Since the Ashley pool has been in operation for two years and is one of the newer associations in Ohio, very few changes in its operation will be necessary to comply with the new plan.

The program of operation will recommend the use of approved registered rams; a parasite control program; the marketing of lambs by grade according to degree of quality and "finish"; and a change in the marking system of lambs for registered pools and non-registered pools.

In pools where the lambs are from approved registered rams the circle marking by colors will be used. In pools of non-registered rams as quare mark using the same colors will be used.

The Ashley pool plans to continue as an open pool for both kinds of lambs, but recommends the use of approved registered rams for all sheep raisers.

Mr. Foust appointed a ram committee of Frank Jackson of Ashley, chairman; Francis Dalrymple, Morrow county associate agent; and Homer Jacoby of Ashley. The parasite control committee was appointed with William Reed of Lexington, chairman; and the county agents in the three counties as other members.

The question of providing sponsorship for a junior lamb feeding project for 4-H club and F.F.A. members was discussed and W. J. McGonigle and Frank Jackson of Ashley, were appointed on this committee.

The tentative pool dates for 1947-48 were set as follows: Aug. 21, Sept. 11, 25, Oct. 9, 23, Nov. 6, 20, Dec. 4, 18, Jan. 8, 29, Feb. 19, March 11, and April 1 and 22. This makes 15 pools for the season. These dates were approved subject to clearance with all organizations concerned.

The board members whose terms expire in 1948 are: Fred Seeger of Waldo, Carl Hough and Ray VanSickle of Delaware county, William Reed, Fred Brown and S. G. Heldebrand of Morrow county.

Those whose terms expire in 1949 are: Jesse Foust, Robert Van Sickle of Morrow county, Hubert Osborn, Henry Brandes, W. J. McGonigle and Frank Jackson of Delaware county.

The chairman of the senate foreign relations committee told reporters, without elaborating, that he expects no new relief requests. His forecast was surprising, because it has seemed likely President Truman would seek additional funds for rehabilitation and other kinds of American aid for nations hard hit by the war.

Parole System Airing Asked

Bar Association Points to Release of Convict, "Insane" Murderess.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 17 — The Cincinnati Bar association's executive committee believes the Ohio parole system should be investigated as a result of the paroling of Harry (Pete) Zenz, who was sentenced to two life terms, and the release from Lima state hospital of a Harrison, O., mother, who confessed slaying her two small children.

Burton E. Robinson, president of the association, said both matters were brought up yesterday at the committee's monthly meeting and were referred to the group's committee on law and enforcement.

Commenting on the parole of Zenz, a resident of suburban Carthage, committee member Roy L. Struble declared:

"The time has come for a thorough study of our parole system to determine whether a man with the record of Zenz can obtain a parole. There have been numerous reports within recent weeks of the number of desperate crimes committed by paroled convicts."

The record of Zenz, other committee members said, included the slugging of a guard, leading a jail break and threatening the life of the Cincinnati judge who sentenced him. The attempted robbery of a bank led to Zenz's sentencing in 1930.

"We also should investigate the question of people getting out of the prison for the criminally insane," said Bert H. Long, another committee member. "It has been reported that a woman recently freed, although charged with killing her two children, was represented by a lawyer who has a record of getting 129 persons out the same way — on writs of habeas corpus. If this sort of thing continues, we may as well close our courts.

Mrs. Marian Elizabeth Stokes, 44, who confessed slaying her two children in January, 1945, was released from the Lima hospital earlier this week on a writ of habeas corpus. She was committed after being acquitted of a first degree murder charge on her plea of innocent by reason of insanity.

New York in "Ruins" After Mock Bombing

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 17—New York was in theoretical "ruins" today after a mock raid by 101 army B-29 superfortresses witnessed by millions of persons on the eastern seaboard, but Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of the Army Air Forces strategic command, says that "even though this force looked formidable * * * it wouldn't last long in a shooting war."

"This force you saw today is mobile and all right and it is capable of dealing a real blow, but for sustained operations it would not last long," Kenney said in a network radio broadcast last night from New York.

About 130 B-29's—representing every plane of the type available in the United States for operational work at present—were to have been in the armada yesterday but a score and a half were diverted because of bad weather.

Tall Shale Cliffs Of West May Hold Key To U. S. Oil Future

By The Associated Press

RIFLE, Colo., May 17—The tall shale cliffs of the west may provide the margin between future want and plenty in America's petroleum supplies if the government's latest experiment is a success.

Today, for the first time in the oil demonstration plant near this tiny western Colorado town, a naval officer told of plans to use it, and similar plants, to assure America of enough fuel for any emergency.

Commodore W. G. Greenman, USN, director of naval petroleum reserves, described the huge plant as "part of the program to make certain the United States will not find itself without adequate gasoline and oil when supplies of natural petroleum may fail at a time national security is threatened."

Unless exploration is highly successful, "we are within a few years of an all-time peak of domestic production and thereafter a decline is inevitable," he continued.

"If there is another war, the United States may find itself an isolated nation. We must assume that it will be."

In Colorado and Utah the navy controls 158,000 acres of rich oil shale land, some of it so rich in oil that pioneers used chips of rocks for their campfires.

Argument Over $125 Blamed for Killings

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 17 — It was an argument over $125, police said today, that prompted Daniel Williams Jr., 40, Negro lawyer, to kill two men and wound two others in a wild 10 minutes yesterday at Washington's municipal court building.

Williams, shot four times, was questioned by police at Gallinger hospital.

The Negro's victims were Ray Devendorf, 65, clerk for the district bar association's committee on grievances and admissions, and Hubert Estes, 51, a policeman.

He wounded George W. Dalzell, 69, executive secretary of the grievance committee, and Cecil Claig, 45, a guard.

Detective Sergt. Walter Perry said Williams told him he shot Dalzell because "I wanted to get my money back" and that he shot Estes because "he shot at me first."

Dalzell, shot through the chin, neck and shoulders, was reported in serious condition. Claig was wounded in the face.

Marion Books MightyMcGurk

"The Mighty McGurk" starring Wallace Beery with Dean Stockwell and Edward Arnold, and "Cross My Heart" with Betty Hutton and Sonny Tufts will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Marion theater.

The former is the story of an ex-prize ring champ who, against his will, finds himself the foster-father of a young English orphan and as a result is changed from a saloon character to a supporter of a respectable institution. The story of "Cross My Heart" is concerned with the dilemma of a chronic liar whose biggest whopper involves her in more trouble than even she can handle.

A suspense-filled drama, "Wanted For Murder," and a musical hit, "If I'm Lucky," will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Wanted For Murder," starring Eric Portman, Dulcie Gray and Derek Farr, is the story of a man who kills for the sheer thrill of killing. The film "If I'm Lucky," starring Vivian Blaine, Perry Como, Harry James and Carmen Miranda, is set against the background of an exciting election campaign and tells of the adventure of a girl vocalist, a crooner, and a hot trumpeter who, in an effort to make the big time, find themselves all mixed up in love and politics.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "Smoky" starring Fred MacMurray and Anne Baxter, and "Lawless Breed" with Jane Adams and Kirby Grant, will be shown.

The story in the former is of a man who loved danger, a woman who loved a man, and of the events that changed their lives into a great adventure.

Irving Berlin Story at Ohio

Irving Berlin's "Alexander's Ragtime Band," the celebrated musical hit, is now playing a return engagement at the Ohio theater. It will be shown through Thursday.

Starring Tyrone Power, Alice Faye, Don Ameche and Ethel Merman, the story tells of two headstrong young people, the young bandleader and his singer, whose romance is as turbulent as the era in which they both fought for fame. The progress of their careers is punctuated with quarreling and parting and then forgiving and finding love again through their music.

Tyrone Power is seen as Alexander, with Alice Faye as Stella Kirby, the talented singer. Don Ameche plays the role of a songwriter, and Ethel Merman is a nightclub singer. Heard in the picture are twenty-eight of Berlin's outstanding song hits.

Also making a return engagement to the theaters is the unforgetable classic, "Les Miserables," with Fredric March and Charles Laughton in the starring roles. It will be shown for four days starting Friday at the Ohio.

Adapted from the famous story by Victor Hugo, Fredric March is seen as Jean Valjean, who is imprisoned for five years because he stole a loaf of bread. Upon his release, he finds himself hunted and hounded by the sinister police detective, Javert. The latter role is played by Charles Laughton.

Heading the supporting cast are Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Rochelle Hudson, Frances Drake and Joan Beal.

A double feature, "The Return of Monte Cristo" and "San Quentin," will be shown Friday and Saturday.

The former, starring Louis Hayward and Barbara Britton, is a story of adventure and romance and is full of dramatic surprises and sly humor. The setting is in France in the era of Louis Napoleon. There, Edmond Dantes, played by Hayward, comes of age and is ready to accept a vast inheritance. However, he is defrauded by a group of sinister schemers, hauled into prison and then banished to Devil's Island.

"San Quentin" stars Lawrence Tierney and is a portrayal of one man's determination to help his fellow-unfortunates. It tells of an ex-convict who sets out to capture an escaped killer.

Cubs Play Richmond Here Tonight; Twin Bill Sunday

Marion's second-place Cubs are back in town tonight for a duel with Richmond at Lincoln Park. Game time is 8 p. m.

The Roses handed the Cubs a dual loss in the only evening of play the locals managed to get in during the last road trip. The entire Muncie series was washed out as a scheduled doubleheader last night was postponed because of wet grounds.

Marion was trailing 7-0 in the top of the fifth Thursday night when the clouds opened up—making it no contest. The game had been rescheduled for last night.

Richmond's Roses will remain in town for a doubleheader Sunday, first game at 2 p. m. and second at 8.

Monday night the Muncie Packers will be at Lincoln Park for the first of a two-game series. Wednesday, the Lima Terriers will be here for a game rained out earlier in the season.

Springfield Snaps Zanesville's Win Streak 9 to 4

By The Associated Press

Springfield's doughty Giants tightened the Ohio State league pennant race last night, bounding back from a defeat at Zanesville's hands to snap the league-leading Dodgers eight-game victory string, 9 to 4.

In the league's only other game Richmond's Roses came out on top, 7 to 5, over Lima. Newark and Dayton postponed their game because of wet grounds while a doubleheader between Marion's Cubs and Muncie's Packers was rained out, nulling the series since Thursday's opener was called at the top of the fifth inning.

Standing out in the Giants' victory, which helped idle Marion to reduce the Dodgers' lead to 2½ games, were Ed Lisiewski and Bill Metral. Lisiewski hurled neat seven-hit ball and was superb in the clinches while Metral rifled a first inning homer. Springfield trailed only during the interval between the Dodgers' first chance at bat and Metral's clout.

Richmond wiped out a 5 to 0 lead by pecking away at two Terrier flingers in the late innings.

MIZE HITS BALL AT 70 PER YEAR CLIP

Already Ahead of Babe Ruth's Homer Schedule.

By The Associated Press

Big Johnny Mize continues his home run spree for the New York Giants at a pace designed to force comparisons with Babe Ruth's all-time record gait.

When the Babe set his famous record of 60 in 1927, he didn't clout his tenth until May 22. Mize hit No. 10 yesterday off Hank Wyse at Wrigley field on the Giants 22nd game of the playing season. Arithmetic deductions, which ignore such factors as John's susceptibility to broken hands, sprained ankles and the hot summer sun, insist his final total should be an even 70.

With Mize setting the long distance pace, the entire club has gone hit crazy. The club batting average is a rosy .280, only one point below the Boston Braves who top both major leagues.

Winning six of their last seven and four in a row from St. Louis and Chicago, the Giants have edged into third place, only one game back of the leading Cubs, today's opponent.

Monty Kennedy was the beneficiary of yesterday's assault on Wyse and his successors. Mize set a new National league record by scoring in his 16th consecutive game, even before he hit his two-run homer to solidify a 5-3 win over Chicago.

Despite the loss, the Cubs retained undisputed possession of first place because St. Louis again stifled Boston's ambitions, edging out the Braves, 4-3, in a night game. Brooklyn got to Kirby Higbe, an old mate who now toils for Pittsburgh, beating the Pirates, 3-1, and the Philadelphia Phils backed Schoolboy Rowe with a 15-hit attack against Cincinnati to give the Schoolboy his sixth straight victory, 8-4. Rowe, however, needed relief help in the sixth.

Boston's Red Sox outscored the St. Louis Browns, 12-7 with Ted Williams' grand slam homer, his eighth of the season, the most important of 10 hits. When Williams hit the ball into the right field seats, it made the score 11-0 but the Browns got to Harry Dorish for seven runs in the last three innings.

Walt Masterson's four-hit shutout of Cleveland, 2-0, was the day's best pitching effort but it failed to lift Washington out of seventh place. Philadelphia knocked out Virgil Trucks in the first inning when they scored seven runs to assure themselves of an 11-5 romp over Detroit.

In Humboldt county, Calif., more than 20 trees grew out of the trunk of a giant redwood which fell more than 50 years ago.

Marion's Stewart Young Likely To Be First String End with Army Gridders

Cadet Stewart Young, son of Mrs. Hector S. Young of 282 Clover avenue, has shown great promise of being an outstanding end on the football team of the United States Military Academy this next season, according to the public information office at the academy.

Cadet Young was a member of Army's varsity team which, last fall, completed its third straight undefeated season. He has played on the first team during the spring practice session and will probably retain the position.

Played Last Year

He participated in several of Army's football games this past season.

Young called signals for the Harding High school grid squad which hung up a record of seven wins, one loss and one tie in 1943. He was a guard on the Prexy basketball teams and participated in the intramural track program. He graduated in 1944.

Young has been very active in academy athletics. Besides his intercollegiate football, he has taken an active part in the intramural athletic program designed to keep each cadet physically fit and at the same time to teach him the essentials of most modern sports.

On Crack Cage Squad

Cadet Young was a member of Company B-1's basketball team last year which won the brigade championship in a competition with twenty-three other companies.

Young's activities are not limited to athletics. He is the class secretary of the second (junior) class and stands high in academic and military aptiude rating.

Cadet Young received his appointment from Rep. Frederick C. Smith of Marion, who represents Ohio's Eighth congressional district.

Cubs Saved by Raindrop

Marion's Cubs missed being shutout for the first time this season by a raindrop.

Thursday the Muncie Packers had the local product on the ropes 7-0 with two men out in the top of the fifth. One more Marion out would have made it an official contest.

With Adams at bat and the count one ball and no strikes, rain saved the night and the Bruins.

According to the rules—which state that the losing team must have completed its fifth turn at bat—the game is ruled "no contest." Just a dry run in the rain.

It is chalked up as exercises and none of the records made go into the official averages. When the postponed game is finally played, it will start from scratch as if it had been rained out from the beginning.

Wool Stocks Pile Up On Hardin Co. Farms

Special to The Star

KENTON, May 17 — Kenton wool dealers report wool is piling up on the farms of Hardin county and has been since April 15 when the government quit buying in the wool market.

Most dealers reported they had made few or no purchases in the last month because there is no market and they are undecided as to what the future wool price will be.

Many Hardin county farmers sold the year's clip previous to April 15 but hundreds of others have sheared since that time. Dealers maintain that no market will be available until congress passes some legislation on the wool problem.

Shrine Benefit Baseball Game Set for July 19

Again this year funds for the Shriner's hospital for crippled children will be raised through a benefit Marion baseball game.

The game will be played at Lincoln park with Muncie's Packers July 19 and is being sponsored by the Shrine club of Marion.

Much color will be added to the occasion as the crack Shrine marching band of Aladdin temple, Columbus, which numbers over 100 pieces, will be on hand along with other precisioned musical units.

4,000 Sold Last Year

Earl J. Andrews, general chairman in charge of the program, has announced that the ticket sales drive will start early next month. Last year about 4,000 were sold and Shrine officials believe that they will do as well, if not better this year. Price of ducats will be $1.

In the afternoon prior to the game the uptown populace of the city will view the musical organizations as they will parade through the center of the city.

At the playing field they will go through elaborate drills before the game. Following the game a fireworks display will illuminate local skies.

Weather Bad Last Year

Last year although response to the support of the program was gratifying, nature was uncooperative. Rain halted the game in the early innings. Patrons did not suffer, however, because tickets to the Shrine game were honored the next night.

City firemen may also remember the occasion, as a few unruly fireworks set the grass at the rear of the centerfield fence on fire and it spread, burning a hole in the fence. The fire truck carrying firemen to extinguish the blaze suffered damage in an accident going back to the station.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

COMMENT ON SUNDAY WORK

Editor of The Star — "God sends the rain and sun shine on the just and unjust." Mat. 5:48.

Recently on the front page there was an article about farmers working long hours to get their plowing and planting done after a rainy season has held them back.

Now I believe it is all right for them to work longer hours to get their crops in, but God gave us six days in which to labor, and to do all our buying, selling and trading, and a day which is Sunday or the "Lord's Day" He gave us to rest and worship our risen "Savior." Sunday is the only day of the week to keep Holy, and free from all secular labor. Because it is the resurrection day of Jesus Christ our Lord. Read these chapters: Mat. 28, John 20, Mark 15, and Luke 24.

Sunday means Christ's day for Christ is the sun of righteousness, read Malachi 4:2. If we love Jesus we will keep Sunday and not some other day of the week. John 15:10 and I John 5:2.

Some people say any day is all right, but I've got my first person to meet who lives up to such a belief. James 2:10.

America is blessed with all kinds of modern machinery and yet man can't get his work done in six 24-hour days. If the shops would start paying straight time for Sunday, they couldn't get two per cent of the men to work.

The love of money is the root of all evil, 1 Tim. 6:10. "We as a nation are forgetting God."

Fifteen or 20 years ago farmers were ashamed to work in their fields on Sunday, but now just about everybody is doing it and there are very few God fearing people left. Read the fourth chapter of Hosea.

God knows how much rain and sunshine we need, and He has promised a seed time and harvest, (Gen. 8:22), so why disobey His command to keep the Sabbath Day holy, and bring His displeasure and finally judgment upon us.

Six years ago God for Jesus' sake saved and sanctified me, and since that day I have not only kept the Sabbath holy, but by His grace and power have not knowingly disobeyed any of His laws "praise His name forever." I am a shop worker not a farmer But God says to all keep the Sabbath Day holy. "Just one life will soon be past only what's done for Christ will last."

Marion W.C.T.U. Group On LaRue Program

Special to The Star

LARUE—Ten members of the Marion W.C.T.U. were guests at an all day meeting of the LaRue W.C.T.U., May 9, at the home of the president, Mrs. Arthur Ingle west of here. The Marion group furnished the program and the LaRue union served dinner.

Mrs. Ella Ellington, co-director, was chairman for the service. Devotions for the morning session was conducted by Mrs. Olive Upton. Rev. C. A. Hutchison, local Methodist pastor, conducted the devotions for the afternoon session. Vocal and accordion music was furnished by Mrs. A. L. Wood, Mrs. Fever and Mrs. Donough, all of Marion.

Mothers of the third grade of the LaRue school were guests at a recent program presented in their honor by the pupils of that room under the direction of their teacher, Miss Lila Harriman. Numbers included readings, musical selections both vocal and instrumental, playlets, tableaux, and drill with remarks by Phillip Blue, the announcer.

The event was an expression of appreciation of the pupils to their mothers who, through a mothers' club organized this year, added several pieces of new equipment to the room.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

DICKY looked me up and down with teasing appraisal.

"You'd better consult a psychiatrist," he said. "That celebrated memory of yours is slipping. We agreed, with Dr. Twitchell's approval, that nobody was to stay alone with Mary until this crisis is past. Therefore, I won't go to bed until Katharine comes in. You and she can arrange about watches. So run along and make-up your face."

"It probably needs it," I said, then added a question which I knew would draw an enthusiastic affirmative:

"Would you like some coffee?"

"You know the answer to that one," he answered, "and you're speaking two words for yourself to one for me. I was just about to telephone our faithful Tommy, and, if he isn't dozing, ask him to go to that all-night coffee shop and get us a container and some sandwiches."

"I have a better idea than that," I told him. "Just plug in that electric grill and set the teakettle on. Then when I come back, I'll fix you up a snack."

"Not eggs," he said firmly. "I have my heart set on a bacon and egg and muffin breakfast when the dining room opens."

Attend to Teakettle

"Tr-r-ust me!" I ordered, wrinkling my nose at him. "Just attend to the teakettle."

"I'll never take my eyes offen it," he promised with a flourish.

"Don't do that!" I warned him over my shoulder. "The watched pot, you know."

"This one will boil," he promised, and I went through the open door into the bedroom, pausing for a second to look down at Mary, still deep in her drug-induced slumber.

Then I went into the bathroom, showered, used my cosmetics, arranged my coiffure for the day, and dressed. Taking a frilly apron from behind the door, I tied it on over my gown and went back into our sitting room, assuring myself, as I passed Mary's bed, that she was still asleep.

"The kettle's bilin'," Dicky assured me solemnly. "What's next on the program?"

Dicky Ordered to Relax

"Set the coffee table over by Mary's door," I told him, "and then lean back in your chair or lie down on the couch, and relax."

"In other words, keep out of your hair," he suggested with a grin.

"That's the general idea," I told him with an answering grin, and as he lifted the coffee table from its place, I poured boiling water into my small electric percolator, measured out coffee and plugged the cord into the outlet.

Then I put a cloth and two napkins on the table, with cups, saucers, small plates, sugar, salt, and cream and butter from my tiny icebox. I also plugged in the electric sandwich toaster, and while the coffee was "perking," I worked up a mixture of anchovy paste, soft cheese and shredded olives, spread it upon thin slices of bread, and laid them in the toaster.

Then I tested the coffee, and looked at my husband, comfortably dozing in the arm chair, with a tender smile, as I gratefully thought of the long night vigil he had kept in order that I might sleep.

Grinned Sleepily

My fingers on his wrist wakened him, and he grinned sleepily at me.

"Breakfast is served, m'lord," I told him, and he sat up with alert attention and ate with gusto the toasted sandwiches, and drained two cups of coffee.

"You sure can fix 'em, old dear," he said when we had finished. "I think I can live, now, until breakfast. And I can wait until a decent hour, instead of hanging around outside, waiting for the doors to open.

He helped me to clear away, and then we sat down again in chairs near the bedroom doorway where we could watch Mary, who showed no signs of stirring.

"I do hope Mary will waken before anybody gets here," I said. "I want a chance to talk to her."

"I echo that wish," my husband said, and there was that in his voice which betrayed his deep anxiety for the niece he loves.

"Do you know," he went on, "that if this thing of which we cannot speak until Mary voices it, is what I fear—and you also—you're going to have one awful job on your hands? Doc Twitchell and Katrina will do yeoman duty, but you're the only living person who can pull Mary out of this. But, look! She's stirring!"
